

Regeneration Talk:
Maintaining Life, Repairing the World:
Ethics, Philosophy, and Literature

FEB
3
THU

4:00 – 6:00 PM
*McCune Conference Room, 6020 HSSB

The COVID pandemic has posed a threat to our biological and social lives, disrupting or destroying the “normal” modes and spaces of our ordinary life. How can public life and human interactions recover? Alexandre Gefen and Sandra Laugier will explore how arts and literature contribute to the expectation of reparation and social transformation, the (re)creation of relationships, the formation of social resilience and other narratives, and the development of an ethic of care.

Event format is subject to change based on campus COVID policies. Visit bit.ly/Gefen-IHC for up-to-date information and in-person COVID attendance protocols.*

ALEXANDRE GEFEN

Alexandre Gefen is a Research Professor at the National Center for Scientific Research and Deputy Scientific Director of its Institute of Human and Social Sciences. His research focuses on literary theory and contemporary French literature and culture.

SANDRA LAUGIER

Sandra Laugier is Professor of Philosophy at Université Paris 1 Panthéon Sorbonne and a Senior Fellow of the Institut Universitaire de France. She has published extensively on ordinary language philosophy, moral and political philosophy, gender studies and the ethics of care, and popular culture.

Sponsored by the IHC’s Regeneration series, the Hester and Cedric Crowell Endowment, Department of Germanic and Slavic Studies, Graduate Center for Literary Research, Center for Humanities and Social Change, and Comparative Literature Program

