

APR
9
WED

10:00–11:30 AM
Zoom
bit.ly/GCM-IHC

DR. NFOR NOELA MANKFU-NGWA

Literature, and children’s literature specifically, helps instill value and humanity in times of crisis, as portrayed in Jude Idada’s Boom Boom. Both adults and children find it challenging to handle chronic diseases. Focusing on one of these lethal diseases, sickle cell anemia, this study will show that healing for complex diseases is not only clinical, but that other forms of healing are also important.

Dr. Nfor Noela Mankfu-Ngwa hails from the North West Region of Cameroon. She has a Ph.D. in Postcolonial Literature (specifically, Children’s Literature) from the University of Bamenda.

Sponsored by the IHC’s Global Childhood Media Research Focus Group

IHC Events